CLUB EXPECTS LARGE DISLPAY OF FINE DAHLIAS

Quality Not Size Will be Deciding Factor In Judging Flowers by Experts in Show to be Held Saturday.

"Its not the size so much as the color" that counts in the judging of the dahlias which will be entered in the dahlia show to be held by the Gettysburg Flower Club, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the storeroom of the Hotel Gettysburg annex, officials of the club stated today.

It is predicted by members of the club that the dahlia show this year will be the largest flower show ever to have been held in Gettysburg. This deduction is reached after a careful census of the flowers available for exhibition purposes which abound in the gardens of local growers, and as many have signified their intentions of entering blooms in the exhibit, it is expected that several hundred flowers will be shown.

In addition to the $26.50 in prizes which have been announced in the columns of The Gettysburg Times, a new class has been added for flowers grown by children between the ages of 8 and 10 years for which Fred Faber has offered first and second prizes of $1 and 50 cents respectively.

Experts To Judge

The flowers will be judged by two experts, Dr. Norman Keefer, of Mont Alto sanatorium, who is an authority on fine flowers and who will have a display which is expected will occupy at least 20 square feet and include some of the finest blooms to be grown. His exhibit as well as the ones by a Duncannon firm and also the owner of a dahlia farm at Hammers' will not be entered for competition, but for display purposes only.

That size will be but a small factor in judging the flowers was decided by the executive committee after it was pointed out that many of the flowers are almost perfect in coloring but that they have not reached a very big size and it was felt that many growers would be more inclined to enter their flowers if they were not to compete in size but in quality.

Any persons who has three blooms

BANKER KNOWN HERE IS KILLED

S. R. Dickey and Wife, of Oxford, Pa., Die After Car Is Hit by Train.

S. R. Dickey, president of the First National Bank of Oxford, Chester county, and his wife, formerly Miss Anna Rutherford, of Harrisburg, and sister of Mrs. S. G. Bigham, Biglerville, were instantly killed Thursday afternoon at Aikon, Maryland, when their automobile was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio train.

Mrs. Dickey was Mr. Dickey's second wife, and a niece of his first wife.

Mr. Dickey, 81 years old, and Mrs. Dickey, 58 years old, were motoring to Principio Furnace to attend a sale of antiques when the accident occurred. Mr. Dickey, who was driving, stopped the machine to allow a freight train to pass. As the last car crossed the road he started across, not seeing or hearing a special race train for Havre de Grace approaching in the opposite direction.

Mr. Dickey's machine was struck in the middle and ground to bits. Mr. Dickey is survived by one son, Dr. George Dickey, a teacher at Pennsylvania State College, and a daughter, Mrs. James Connor, of Trenton, N. J.

Mrs. Dickey is survived by three sisters and three brothers.

Joint funeral services for the victims will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Oxford.

PENNSYLVANIA 44 WHEAT YIELDS BIG CROP FOR FARMER

P. W. Grube Garners 39 And a Quarter Bushels to the Acre From New Brand of Grain.

Pennsylvania "44", the latest brand of wheat to have been propagated for commercial purposes and which is now being tried by several farmers of Adams county, has vindicated itself itself, at least in the opinion of P. W. Grube, of Gettysburg Route 9, who had an average yield of 39 and a quarter bushels from four and a half acres.

The brand of wheat discovered by chance about five years ago by a student from Pennsylvania State College nourished and cultivated by him has grown in small quantities by a seed firm in Lancaster, and sold to a small group of farmers. Mr. Grube, one of the first farmers of the county to sow the wheat, had just enough to sow the four and a half acres this year and from this small start his yield was over 154 bushels.

In the same field with the Pennsylvania 44 were grown eight acres of "American Wonder," and the yield from this stand was slightly less than an average of 27 bushels to the acre.

The demands for the new grade have been so abundant that Mr. Grube had trouble in saving enough of his yield for seed purposes. He stated that the stalks are longer and that the heads are fuller than any other brand which he has sowed in recent years..

The seed takes its name from the number of the experimental plot in which it was first sown at the State College. The first head was carefully sown and marked by the student finding the first head, and the second year the entire yield was large enough for him to sell two bushels of the grain to several farmers who aided in the propagation. The returns from this planting were large enough for the rapid spread of the grain to other farmers throughout the state, until now the brand is fast gaining in popularity with the growers.

The grain was threshed by Paul Ginter, who lives on Gettysburg Route 8.

Arthur Griest, Mrs. W. C. Yarborough, Mrs. Eugene Craighead and Mrs. Edmund W. Tyson, and Mrs. Robert Lowry received the draw prize. The guests numbered fifty-six, those attending from away from here including Mrs. Maurice Smith and Mrs. J. Claire Sowers, of Chambersburg, and Mrs. W. C. Yarborough, of Wilmington, North Carolina.

And That's That

John Ruth

A reader of this column wrote and expressed the hope that our policy would be "one of construction rather than destruction." That's our idea exactly and we intend to call this our "construction column." Day by day, for six days each week, we hope and fervently pray it will construct a pay check. With the same connotation of thought we like that word Momentum.

Now for the constructive comment. We understand Elsie Singmaster Lewars claims she is not a hymnologist. If the Centenary Hymn commemorating and depicting the glories and accomplishments of the seminary published last week is the criterion by which we are to judge the ability of Mrs. Lewars as a hymnologist then let us hope that this ability will be frequently exercised. Mrs. Lewars has the prerequisite of writing, the knack of deriving interest from, and adding flavor to, almost any topic at will.

The Senior Class nominated its officers for the coming year. We always appreciate a good joke so we pass this on: Mr. A gets up and nominates Mr. B. Whereupon Brother X arises and nominates Brother Y. Being a "loyal member of the fold," Brother B withdraws. This process continues until some of the brethren get vexed and leave. Apparently it makes no difference what qualifications a man may have for an office. Election depends entirely on the "pin" he wears. It's a great democratic system? Mr. Dumbell becomes president of the class while Mr. Violinplayer is elected captain of the football team. Hip, Hip, Hooray, for the politico-fraternity system.

Which all goes to prove that Jay House's idea is all "bunk". The pattern of a man's cuff links has a great deal to do with his ability as a hod-carrier. Well, that's that.

We hope that Prof. Mason will be asked to instruct a class in boxing and wrestling. There are many students who wish this form of exercise and certainly it is wholesome.

"Western civilization," says Dr. Benjamin Kidd, "is yet scarcely more than glorified savagery," Evidently Dr. Kidd was referring to our boarding house. But then, why the glorified?

Locksmiths Who Laugh at Love Rare But Gettysburg Has One

Bakes Own Pies, Receives Customers in Kitchen While in Process of Baking and Believes Marriage Is All Right, But Prefers to Steer Clear of Marital Ship.

The key is always out and a sign on the door advises visitors to "come in without knocking and go out the same way."

The key, symbolizing the principal business of the sole inhabitant of the two-story frame building in Race Horse Alley, is a hundred-fold enlargement of an original, and hangs over the door.

Visitors to the place invariably enter without knocking, for the door is always open, and E. R. Woods, proprietor of the unique establishment, vouches for the fact that few of his patrons or casual visitors go away "knocking."

Mr. Woods is a bachelor, but it was rumored this morning that he had just returned from a honeymoon with a brand-new wife.

"Me, married?" the locksmith laughingly responded to questions concerning the wedding. "Does this look as though I am married?"

Pastry Expert

The visitor was escorted to a small kitchen, adjoining the workshop of the locksmith, where Mr. Woods, aproned and doughy, had just put the finishing touches on the edge of an apple pie. Turning in the edge in true housewifely style, Mr. Woods threw open the door of a hot coal oil stove oven, and inserted the pastry.

Talking and laughing about marriage in particular, his past life and things in general, Mr. Woods proceeded to roll out the lower crust for another apple pie.

"I was born in Adams county, just below Marsh Creek on the Emmitsburg road," he said, sprinkling a little flour on the flattened dough to prevent it sticking to the rolling pin.

"I learned the locksmith business in Harrisburg where I worked in a jewelry store. I also worked on the police force and on the trolleys in that city."

Receives Dr. Hanson In Kitchen

Just then the door of the shop was heard opening and closing, but the baker-locksmith was busy and momemtarily could not be disturbed. He had just picked up the rolled crust and was tucking it in the earthen dish. The newcomer in the shop whistled.

"Come on back here," Mr. Woods called, and Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, appeared in the doorway of the kitchen.

The pie-making locksmith then stopped long enough to allow Dr. Hanson to explain that a lock on a trunk at the Hanson home was broken off and would probably require a new one. Mr. Wood said he could fix it and would place a new lock on the trunk, if it were brought to his place of business. Dr. Hanson promised to have the trunk there by noon and departed.

Mr. Wood again turned his attention to the pie. Two heaping handfuls of sliced apples went into the dish. These were sprinkled with a dash of cinnamon and several spoonfuls of sugar. Then came another dough-rolling process, but before the baker placed the top crust on the pie, he moistened the edge of the lower crust so that the upper and lower dough would knit together and to prevent the pie from "boiling out," he explained.

Has "Pie Complex"

Then balancing the pie dish on the finger tips of his left hand, Mr. Woods cut off the over-hanging dough, turned in the edges, looked well-pleased

CHAMPION TUNNEY BELIEVES HE WON IN FIRST ROUND

Heavyweight King Thinks Right To The Jaw At Opener Was the Winning Blow.

(By Associated Press.)

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—Gene Tunney, the champion, was unchanged from Tunney, the challenger, except in one particular today.

He sat up until the early hours of the morning. For months the boxer had gone to bed nightly before 10 o'clock.

The new heavyweight champion sat for hours in a big chair in the unpretentious two-room suite of one of the smaller hotels owned by a boxer and his manager.

The former Marine was as calm after his victory as he was before.

"Plans?" he said in reply to a question as to where he will go from here. "None yet."

"I am going home to New York," he added, "but just when I do not know."

Won In First Round

Tunney said he was convinced that he won his big fight in the first round.

"The right I landed on the jaw soon after the bell, didn't do Jack any good," he smiled.

Three C's stood out in Tunney's makeup as he approached the bout, confidence, condition and calm. No more confident boxer had entered a championship ring, and experts, groggy but still able to do light expert-ing, agreed that if perfection in condition had been attained, Gene Tunney brought it with him to the ring.

Tunney today paraphrased an expression of a champion of another day.

Through With 'Planes

"I am through with motion picture machines," declared J. J. Jefferies, after fighting under the powerful lights when motion pictures were made at one of his championship bouts."

"I am through with airplanes," said Tunney. As challenger he came from Stroudsburg in an airplane to reach Philadelphia yesterday. As the champion he will travel by train or motor.

"It was a worthwhile experience,

ARRANGE FOR BAND CONCERT

Official Navy Band of Washington to Give Two Concerts Here October 11.

The official band of the United States Navy is coming to Gettysburg to give two concerts on October 11, the first day of its annual eight weeks tour of the eastern part of the country. The Lions Club is sponsoring the initial appearance which the band has ever made here.

The band is known throughout the United States as the official band of the Mayflower, the private yacht of the president, and it was the musical organization which accompanied the late President Harding on his tour of Alaska.

Miss Mary E. Hughes, advance representative of the band, arrived here Thursday evening and this morning she addressed the students at the chapel exercises at both Gettysburg College and the Gettysburg High School. This afternoon she met with the committee of the Lions Club which is in charge of the arrangements for the band and discussed the plans for the two concerts which will be given in the Majestic Theatre, both afternoon and evening of October 11.

The musicians will arrive here from Washington and give a concert in the afternoon for the school children and all others who desire to attend. A parade of all of the school children of town is being planned for the afternoon to precede the concert.

From Gettysburg the band goes to Shippensburg, thence to Waynesboro and then after Lebanon, they will tour through Virginia, working farther west after that.

Beeves Raised By The Three Murrens Carry Off Honors In Calf Club Competition.

The three-day South Mountain Fair ended in a deluge of rain Thursday evening, materially reducing attendance and preventing the removal of the hundreds of agricultural and commercial exhibits.

Despite the fact that the weather was threatening Wednesday and Thursday, finally ending in a heavy thunderstorm, officials of the fair are well pleased with the first attempt to stage an enlarged and strictly agricultural exposition at Arendtsville Union Park.

So pleased with the patronage accorded the fair and the hundreds of men, women and children, who were represented by exhibits in the several classes, are officials of the show that discussion of next year's fair also has begun.

Rain Spoiled Crowd

Although the weather was favorable early Thursday afternoon, the skies again became overcast toward evening and grew steadily blacker until a thunder storm unleashed its fury. The threatening weather of the afternoon kept large numbers away from the fair, according to fair officials.

Although the association will collect $2,000 rain insurance as a result of the downpour, it was stated that the directors would have preferred clear weather to several additional thousand dollars of insurance.

Today the exhibits were being taken out of the various buildings, and the grounds being cleared up.

The pulling contests in the heavy and middleweight classes attracted considerable attention, Thursday afternoon, but no previous records were approximated by the teams. The team of Oscar Rice, Biglerville, won the heavyweight contest, with the team of Clarence Bream, Cashtown, second. The winner received $25 with $15 as second prize.

Murrens Win Again

The three winners in the middleweight class were Guy McBeth, Brysonia, first; Roy Raffensperger, Biglerville, second, and M. E. Knouse, Biglerville, third. The prizes for first and second places were the same as the heavyweight awards, with $10 for the third prize. In all, $140 was given in prizes in the pulling contest.

R. E. Underwood, Adams county farm agent, today announced the baby beef club awards as follows:

Catharyn Murren, $15; Francis Murren, $8; Caroline Murren, $6; Bernard Rebert, $5; William Seibert, $4; Edwin Motter, $3; C. J. Tyson, Jr., $2.50; Robert Lott, $2.50; Thomas Raffensperger, $2.50; Ralph Tyson, $2.50; Edwin Lawver, $2, and Guy Raffensperger, $2.

By coincidence, the three Murren children were awarded the first three places in the Conewago roundup several weeks ago.

FIGHT STARTED ON CORN BORER

Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 24.—Inspection of lines of defense against the everincreasing ravages of the European corn borer has been begun near Toledo by etymologists and agriculturalists of twelve states, the Dominion of Canada and the Federal Government.

CHAMPION TUNNEY

but painful," said the new champion in describing his experience in the air. "It made me deathly sick and I would gladly have disbarked if it had been possible."

Tommy Rilley, of Philadelphia, the referee, who was not called upon to give a decision in the Dempsey-Tunney fight, said that had he been required to give a verdict, he would have cast his ballot for the new champion.

Battle of Southpaws

Rilley said he gave Tunney 7 rounds, the second was equal and two were Dempsey's.

"It was a battle of left hands," said Rilley. "Tunney hit with remarkable precision while Dempsey showed that his long lay off affected his work to a great extent. He hit wildly and while he was apparently doing the right thing his plans went wrong partly due to his inability to keep Tunney in front of him.

"The new champion was continually outguessing Jack. Of course, this was made possible by the ever willingness of the champion to take the offensive, showing utter disregard of Gene's counters, some of which he timed beautifully.

Lost "Killer" Pace

"From the tap of the gong in the first round until the close of the bout, Dempsey was weaving in and trying to get the pace that made him the famed 'killer' of other days.

"But that famous Dempsey punch was lacking. The 'sock' only materialized about four times during the entire bout. The new champion, however, took them and refused to buckle under the attack.

"Tunney showed he had planned his battle carefully. He knew what he wanted to do and did it at the right moment. He had his head about him. He emerged a champion in every sense of the word."

Greatest in History

Jack Dempsey pases over the pugilistic horizon today into the graveyard of defeated champions leaving behind him an amazing ring career and the distinction of being the greatest box office attraction in the history of glove fighting.

PREFERS ICE CREAM

Some of Gene Tunney's friends crowded into his room when he arrived there after being proclaimed world champion heavyweight fighter and tried to "throw a party" for him.

"What'll you have?" Gene was asked by one of the merry makers.

"If you don't mind," he said, "I'd like to have a little ice cream."

Jack Dempsey's $10,000 nose withstood the battering of Gene Tunney's fist just as Dempsey figured it would. It still was Roman-looking as ever today, undamaged, with no signs of cracking.

Dempsey, giving no thought of his proboscis, was chiefly concerned over the appearance of his left eye, which had a shade of blue. The swelling was reduced.

Yes, the Centennial celebration up on the hill is coming along nicely. However, it must be embarrassing for an institution to have some of its "hale and hardy" old grads return for the celebrations. In fact we can't think of anything harder on a celebration unless it might be a typical Florida storm. And did you notice that one with the long coat and the flowing hair?

What do you think off "The Tyranny of God" by Joseph Lewis?" writes J. R. D. Need we say more than that it was recommended by Luther Burbank before his death. In case J. R. D. is still interested we will add that Mr. Lewis' efforts presumably express and present dramatically the perplexities and the conundrums of life. We understand the third edition is now off the press. The mere fact that Clarence Darrow along with Burbank recommended it would incline us towards reading "Bringing Up Father." We are particular what we read. The world would have been better off had Burbank stuck to the study of his plants and Darrow to the study of law. It seems that both men have spoken authoritatively on a few too many subjects.

Isn't it it strange? No one seems to have been betting on Dempsey. All one can hear now is...."I told you so."

Many interesting phases of the big bout were discussed in Bible Class this morning. Dr. Blank said he had followed very closely all the preliminary training of both the champion and the challenger.

References were repeatedly made to the syndicated material that has been running in the press. Changes of classes interrupted Dr. Blank's dissertation before any conclusion was reached by the class as a whole.

Wonder how Dempsey felt when he stepped into the ring at nine thirty last night? And then think how he must have felt when he stepped out at ten twenty....discouraged....his eyes closed.

We had a similar sensation once. At ten thirty, one fine morning we knocked on the president's door. We had been "challenged" also. Shortly after eleven we stepped out....discouraged....but our eyes had been opened.

This column maintains its original stand,—we care not who won.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Joseph W. Bream, who died nine years ago, September 24, 1917.

Dearest mother, we still miss you,
We still long your voice to hear,
In the silent hour of midnight
Oft we shed a silent tear.

Call not back the dear departed,
Anchored safe where storms are o'er,
On the borderland we left her,
Soon to meet and part no more.

By her son, John P. Bream.

WOMEN ROBBERS RETURNED MONEY

Gypsies Holdup Gardners Farmer on Road to Carlisle, But Restore Pocketbook.

That charity is sometimes practiced among thieves was demonstrated Thursday morning when John Wolf, farmer, of Gardners, R. D. 3, on his way to Carlisle with a wagon load of wood, was held up on the Mt. Holly Springs road, near Rudy's woods, by two women, said to be members of a band of gypsies.

According to the story told police by Wolf when he finally reached Carlisle about an hour after the attempted robbery took place, two women stopped his team, and, after ordering him from his seat on the wagon, proceeded to search his pockets.

Finding only 85 cents, all the money Wolf carried, the women returned the purse and the money. Wolf was not molested and allowed to go on his way. Wolf declared the women had robbery for their motive and did not employ fortune telling as a ruse to get his purse.

TORNADO SWEEPS OVER OHIO TOWNS

Sundusky, Ohio, Sept. 24.—A tornado twisted its way along a twelve-mile stretch of Lake Erie near here yesterday, whisked through the center of Huron, a village of 2,000, nine miles from here, and disappeared into the lake.

No fatalities were reported. The damage at Huron was placed at between $10,000 and $20,000. Barns were unroofed and trees uprooted in the vicinity. A house was wrecked at Bloomingville and half a dozen other homes unroofed.

with his handiwork and placed pie No. 2 in the oven.

"Sometimes I make as high as six pies for myself, but they last me only two days. You see I have a regular pie face," he explained.

On the subject of matrimony, Mr. Woods had this to say:

"Marriage is all right, and I am in favor of it for some folks, but not for myself. When I want to go out and have a good time, I don't want to come home and have a lot of explanations to make. I go when I please, where I please, and come back when I please, and it is no one's business but my own."

But as yet he hadn't explained how he learned to make pies according to the approved receipt.

"Oh," he replied, "you see I ran a restaurant in Hagerstown for eleven years."

"Well, all I have to say is that I have a new blade for an old saw and it is one of my many claims to fame. There is an old saying that 'Love laughs at Locksmiths,' but here in front of your eyes you have the spectacle of a Locksmith laughing at Love. Now how's that?"

Out of the Past

Happenings of Days Gone by as Chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times, the Files Reveal.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Sachs-Hartzell Home Wedding. The lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jere T. Hartzell, near town, was the scene of an unusually pretty wedding at noon to day (September 26), when their daughter, Miss Nora O. Hartzell, was married to Luther I. Sachs, of Waynesboro. The lawn was prettily decorated with flowers and the guests were grouped on either side of the aisle down which the wedding party marched.

As the wedding march was played by Mrs. Harry Thomas, a sister of the bride, the flower girls, Evelyn Thomas and Miriam Hartzell, nieces of the bride, appeared at the head of the wedding party. They wore dainty dresses of cream silk and were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Daisy Wentz, who wore pink messaline and carried pink carnations. With her was the best man, R. Boyd Nell, of Allen, a classmate of the groom at Gettysburg College.

Mildred Hartzell, the ring bearer, wearing a dress of white embroidery, came next in the wedding procession and then the bride and groom. The bride wore a gown of cream messaline trimmed with lace. She carried bride's roses. Rev. Joseph B. Baker performed the ceremony.

After an informal reception and luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Sachs left for Waynesboro where they will make their home, Mr. Sachs being engaged with his father, Henry Sachs, in contracting. The bride's going away costume was of brown cheviot with hat to match.

One of the special features of the new garage is free storage to people from the county who come into town to spend a few hours either in day or evening.

Local Choir to Organize. The association of Gettysburg singers known as the Chautauqua choir through their enjoyable work at the time of the August attraction decided at their practice for the county Sunday School convention on Monday evening to form a permanent organization. Progress Made on St. James. The new St. James Lutheran church has now reached a point in its construction where the general appearance of both the exterior and interior of the building can be judged by an inspection of the structure as completed up to this time.

Probably the most interesting part of the building at the present time is the Sunday School room. The large gallery, which is expected to accommodate hundreds, is clearly defined and the general outlines of the interior of the room can be seen. This portion of the building is expected to have a capacity of 700 and the auditorium will seat the same number.

Just Folks

THE CYNIC CHANGES HIS MIND

Life couldn't please him, try howe'er it would.
Nothing on earth which he could find was good.
All men were fools. All pleasures commonplace.
God's greatest blunder was the human race.

Then came the day this pessimist fell ill.
He called the doctor, as a sick man will.
The grave physician looked him o'er and said:
"Cheer-up, old man! you'll very soon be dead."

"What's that?" the cynic muttered, with a sigh.
"Can you not save me? Am I doomed to die?"
"Doomed," said the doctor, "from this vale of woe,
This world of fools, tonight I think you'll go.

"I could perhaps restore your strength and save
Your pain-racked body from the peaceful grave,
But I refrain. My cures I will not try.
From all you've said I'm sure you want to die."

"Doctor," the cynic mumbled, "use the knife!
Do anything you will, but save my life.
Oft have I cursed the world, but 'twas a lie!
I've changed my mind. I'd rather live than die!"

Snappy Paragrafs

Little Jack Rabbit

by David Cory

The Old Brown Horse didn't mind the rain.
He was only too happy once again
To pull along the creaky old chaise
As he used to do in the good old days.

Yes, sir, he stood out in the rain with a smile on his face while Uncle Lucky, Little Miss Mousie and the bunny boy put on their wraps and said goodby to the Big Brown Bear. As soon as these three little people were seated in the old buggy, the good steed trotted away amid "Goodbys" and "Come again" from Mr. and Mrs. Big Brown Bear.

"Mighty nice of you to come after us," cried the old gentleman rabbit, as the Old Brown Horse turned up the Winding Trail and through the Whispering Glen far from the haunts of mortal men. "Guess we would have been forced to spend the night at Cosy Cave House if you hadn't arrived."

"How did you find out we were there?" asked the little rabbit.

"Ha, ha!" neighed the good old steed. "My little feathered friend, Bobbie Redvest, who often calls to pick up stray kernels of oats, told me you three were caught out in the rain. So I trotted in from the Pleasant Pasture and hitched myself to the old buggy. And, well, here I am, happy to once more be pulling between the shafts.

"Oh, in the dear Old Long Ago
I never trotted lame and slow,
But always made a speedy trip
Without a tickle of the whip."

But, goodness me. Even if he had been younger and more lively he would not have dared to race in the dreadful storm that was breaking all over the earth.

"Are your feet try?" asked careful Uncle Lucky, lookng down at Little Miss Mousie's hind feet, over which had been tied two little toy rubber balloons, as I mentioned a story or so ago.

"Yes, indeedy. Just as snug as two little bugs in a rug," she answered with a smile.

"I'm all right, too," laughed the little rabbit. "The old buggy top doesn't leak a bit on my side."

"Well, we'll soon be home," went on the old gentleman rabbit, when, Oh dear me! Something happened. Isn't it too bad that disagreeable things will occur when you least expect them? Well, I'll say so. All of a sudden, just like that, quick as the wind blows off your hat,—and the wind was blowing hard enough to almost lift the helmet off a little tin soldier's head,—down fell a great big limb right in front of the Old Brown Horse. If he hadn't stopped mighty quick, right then and there, something serious would have occurred. Yes, sir. Just as sure as the bills on the first of the month.

"Dear, Oh dear!" sighed the old gentleman rabbit. "If that old limb had only hung on for another second we would have been past it and safely on our way. But, no. It wouldn't wait, so we must," and he asked the Old Brown Horse what he was going to do.

"Guess I'll have to pull it out of the way," answered that plucky old steed. "Unfasten the traces and then we'll somehow tie them to the limb. Have you any rope with you?"

"Not a foot length," sadly answered Uncle Lucky.

"I have," shouted the bunny boy. "I've a piece of clothesline in my knapsack. Wait a minute," and while he is unbuckling the straps, your Uncle Davé will write the next story.

How to stop BOILS!

There's only one way to stop boils. Stop the cause of boils! That's common sense—isn't it? All right. Boils thrive because the blood gets so weak in healthy, red cells that it can't throw off the impurities that get into the body. There's not enough rich, red blood to purify the system.

Now—S. S. S. builds back the blood to fighting strength. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells—builds them by the millions! Boils dry up!

S. S. S. is the thing. Impurities that cause boils and other skin eruptions can't stand up against the rich, healthy, red blood that S. S. S. builds. That's all there is to it.

Stop boils with S. S. S. It's the way. Get it at any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

HOW I IMPROVED MY HEALTH

Did It in Less Than One Month

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

In some families, the fourth generation is learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE CHILD'S LIFE

WHAT an interesting book would the life of a child be—that is, the daily, every movement, every thought life of the child.

We all notice the child at work and play and are attracted its way, but none of us really sees the life as it unfolds and develops. We just get it in spots.

The bubbling of the child heart is so natural. Its own world is the one and only world. Its broken doll is a sadder event in its life than the fall of a dynasty to other lives.

Nobody ever has or ever will write a real life of a child. For nobody understands it. But everybody loves the child, because it lives all the dreams, adventures, and journeyings that sieve through its active brain.

There is nothing so sincere as the working of the child mind. It is truth itself. And how easily is this mind affected and this child heart hurt.

Every once in a while you run into a grown person who still carries the child mind and heart around with him. If there were more people who did this, it would be a much different world. Gentleness, consideration for the feelings of others, and a grateful appreciation for all services rendered by others would blow away many a cloud from a dark day.

A child should never be taunted. It should be taught. And it should never be allowed to know what fear is.

Whenever I see a baby carriage cross the street, I see the picture of events, I see groups of happy well wishers, I see a mother whose heart is lighted with the choicest stars from heaven.

What confidence it gives a man to hold the soft, small hand of a child, to answer its urgent questions, and to feel the warmth of its faith!

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Joseph W. Bream, who departed from us nine years ago, September 24, 1917.

Dearest mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
No one on earth can take your place.

Oft and often our thoughts have wandered
To the grave so far away,
Where we laid our darling mother
Nine years ago today.

But some day, be it soon or later,
Beyond the silent sea,
With out-stretched arms at Heaven's gate,
I know she will welcome me.

By her daughter, Mrs. John Gahring.

Hands were blistered, raw, inflamed

Acute form of eczema yields at last to soothing treatment

Chicago, Illinois, April 14:—"A few months ago I had what I presume was an acute form of eczema. Red blotches and cracks, which refused to heal, appeared on the fingers of my left hand, then spread to my right hand. Both became raw, inflamed and blistery. I began to apply Resinol Ointment and after using three jars my hands are again in perfect shape. Your ointment is wonderful not only for its soothing effect to burning, itching skin, but for its quick healing qualities. From today on I am a volunteer booster of Resinol." (Signed) F. R.
